

Further Education in the UK

It is possible for you to continue your education here in England. Many times you must meet the requirements of a normal resident [3 years] to utilize student aid/loans from UK providers.

One may utilize US Federal Student Aid in a foreign country if the institution is a Title IV school.

Title IV Schools

A Title IV school is an institution that processes U.S. federal student aid. These institutions of higher education include public, private nonprofit and proprietary schools. Attendees of these colleges, if demonstrating financial need, can receive student loans, grants and enter a work-study program.

*There are 191 institutions of Higher Education in England that are Title IV schools.

Community Colleges and Sixth Forms

There are also several community colleges in the area where one can take short-courses or continuing education courses. Some of these lead to vocational certifications in England that can be evaluated for reciprocity when returning to the United States or in other foreign countries. Most community schools will be designated as Community College or Sixth Form.

Here are just a few of the community colleges in the RAF Lakenheath, RAF Mildenhall, and RAF Feltwell area.
