End of Course Assessment

Staff Name

Dates Certifier

1. Cognitive development is all about learning. Give an example of cognitive development for the children in your care.

2. Describe three ways you can support cognitive development for the children in your care.

3. Name two possible developmental warning signs for the children in your care.

4.	Name three typical cognitive developmental milestones for the infants and toddlers in your care.
5,	Why is it so important for infants and toddlers to have a primary caregiver?
	, and a primary and a primary and a primary
_
6,	Name three ways to promote learning through interactions with the children in your care.
7.	Name three things you can do in your program to improve children's understanding and acceptance of culture

8.	Sonya is a typically developing three-year-old in your program. Sonya's mother is concerned that there is "too much play" and her "thinking skills" are not being developed. What could you say to Sonya's mom?
9.	Describe the role of culture and bias in your interactions with the children in your care.
10.	Give an example of how to avoid stereotypes or bias in your program.
11.	How can you support problem-solving and exploration in your family child care home?

12.	Describe one activity or experience you could offer children in each of the following content areas: Language and Literacy, Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies.
13.	Name two changes you can make in your program to help children with special needs learn.