

The Department of Defense (DoD) has launched a career pathway and education advising tool

Career Path DECIDE provides Service members with an on-line advisement tool to support their career exploration and planning, and aid them in identifying and making informed decisions regarding education and professional development opportunities.

Did you know?

77%

of jobs in management and professional career fields require degrees

- Bureau of Labor & Statistics

$22K

more in annual earnings for people holding a bachelors degree or higher

- Census Bureau

34%

higher weekly salary for people who obtain a certification

- Bureau of Labor & Statistics

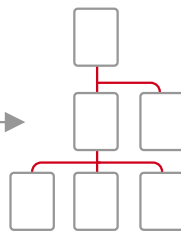

Seamless access to the information needed to plan your career path

Explore career pathways based on fit, qualifications, growth opportunities or interest.

Learn what an occupation involves, salary range, required experience and education.

Understand where to start and what is required for success within a given career field.

NEXT STEPS

FIRST PRIORITY:

HIGH PRIORITY:

See specific and actionable next steps required to build knowledge and close skill gaps.

Get connected to the right education and professional development opportunities.

Career PathDECIDE brings together data from trusted Government sources:

Data sources for Career Path DECIDE include Department of Labor's O*NET, Bureau of Labor Statistics, and Career One Stop; Department of Education (ED)'s College Navigator; and DoD's Defense Manpower Data Center and Tuition Assistance DECIDE. These sources are updated as each source data system is updated, which varies by source system.

www.careerpathdecide.org